COVER STORY

12 Ollie Hopnoodle's Haven of Bliss

This original Disney Channel comedy, written and narrated by humorist Jean Shepherd, is about the trials of one family in the 1950s as they prepare for two blissful weeks at a rustic resort—Ollie Hopnoodle's Haven of Bliss.

16 Videopolis Superstar Special

Take a behind-the-scenes look at some of today's hottest young performers. Pop music sensations like Shanice Wilson, Debbie Gibson, and The Jets talk about the road to success. Plus there's an all-star concert taped live at Videopolis.

20 An Olympic Dream

What does it take to become an Olympic contender? Bud Greenspan's cameras follow a group of young athletes—from nations as diverse as the United States and Kenya—as they prepare for the 1988 Summer Olympics.

22 The Flame Trees of Thika

Hayley Mills portrays Tilly Grant in this superb, seven-hour miniseries. It's the tale of a genteel English family that attempts to build a new life amidst the beauties—and at times brutalities—of colonial Africa.

QUALITY PROGRAMMING

I wanted to write to you and tell you how much my family and I enjoy watching The Disney Channel. Your high quality family movies always start out with a good story and provide my brother, sister, Mom, Dad, and me with an enjoyable form of entertainment. One of my favorite movies is My Side of the Mountain. Not only is The Disney Channel fun to watch, but I have found it to be very informative, also. All your programming is definitely worth watching! Thanks to all of you at The Disney Channel.

KEEPING THE OLDER GENERATION IN MIND

Cheers! Cheers! Cheers! to Gene Kelly and The Disney Channel's Best of Hollywood.

I am a 62-year-old woman who lives alone, and The Disney Channel is the only pay channel I have because it is the only one worth spending my money on.

Thanks again for remembering the older people in your audience. I so look forward to The Disney Channel Magazine to see what is new. Keep up the good work, as you have for many, many years.

— An Incomparable Classic Returns

On July 15, The Walt Disney Studios will re-release Bambi to motion picture theaters across the nation. This timeless tale of a young fawn, and his woodland companions Thumper the rabbit and Flower the skunk, has won the hearts of audiences since its initial appearance 46 years ago. But Bambi is also justly hailed as a masterwork in the history of animation. Five years in production—from 1937 to 1942—the film combines simplicity and realism in its execution of the characters with a vivid, stylized use of color for its forest scenes. Bambi is an example of the animator's art at its highest level. Now a new generation of moviegoers can experience the wonders of this beautiful film—and older generations can renew their memories of a classic.

Katharine Hepburn

Elizabeth Taylor

— Self-portrait of a star

With The Best of Hollywood's salute to screen great Spencer Tracy, subscribers of The Disney Channel will have the opportunity to see two of Tracy's films with his legendary costar (on and off the screen), Katharine Hepburn. (There's also an hour documentary, Tracy and Hepburn, which premieres on Sunday Night Showcase—see pages 29 and 32.)

While admirers of Hepburn have long revered her for her acting genius and personal character, Hepburn maintains a less sanguine view of her film persona. "I'm not Katharine Hepburn," she declared in a recent interview. "People think she's a saint, but she's not. She's this monster I created."

— Using the old-fashioned method

In Father's Little Dividend (page 39), Elizabeth Taylor played Spencer Tracy's married daughter who shakes him with the announcement of her pregnancy.

Of late Taylor has been engaged in a bit of personal transformation. Indeed, that activity led Taylor to write a book, Elizabeth Takes Off, about her recent weight reduction. "I did it the hard, old-fashioned way," she says, "with suffering, boredom, and determination."

Marlon Brando

Robert Redford

— A legend returns

In Teahouse of the August Moon (see page 46), Marlon Brando gives a tour de force performance in a rare comedic role. Absent from feature films for the past eight years, Brando currently has Hollywood abuzz over the news that he will be appearing in an upcoming movie entitled Jericho. Directed by English filmmaker David Cammell, the film is a political drama/thriller set in Central America. And it already has one plot twist: the screenplay was written by Brando. Hollywood is awaiting the results with interest.

— A movie star and mini mogul

Robert Redford can be seen on The Disney Channel in Jeremiah Johnson (page 44), the superb Western about the trials and travails of a mountain man in the 1840s and '50s. Of course, this past year saw the release of Redford's second film as a director, The Milagro Beanfield War, which was shown out of competition at the Cannes Film Festival. In addition to acting and directing, Redford remains committed to a number of causes. One of the chief amongst them is his Sundance Institute, which fosters independent filmmaking and holds the U.S. Film Festival in Park City, Utah.

"I like to encourage others, help them to do the same thing [make independent films]," Redford says of his activities with the Sundance Institute. "We're finding writers out in the bushes and getting them to hook up with filmmakers." While many actors, producers and directors currently decry a film industry held ransom by executives whose sole love is the profit margin, Redford sounds a slightly different note: "I think you can do the best you can," he says of working in today's Hollywood. "But in the end it's like shooting craps—you can't control the table...That's part of the wonderful thing about the business—you can't control it."

— Mickey Mouse dressing room

The Disney animated series The Wuzzles (page 32) features the voice of actress and comedienne Joanne Worley as the creature known as the "Hopopotamus." Worley, who sports a Mickey Mouse watch, was charmed to be in the series.

"When you work at Disney," she explains, "there's a little Mickey pointing at your name on the dressing room door. It's a good place to work."

Joanne Worley

Michael Douglas

— An Oscar for playing Mr. Mean

It's a considerable distance from Wall Street to The Disney Channel, but Michael Douglas, who won an Academy Award for the aforementioned film, is on view on The Channel in Napoleon and Samantha. That Disney film was both Douglas's and Jodie Foster's feature film debut. But the actor's Disney connection runs even farther back than that.

"Hayley Mills was my date on my 16th birthday," he once told an interviewer. "Actually, I got off more on being with her than on being on Kirk Douglas's movie sets."

ARCHIVES

Dave Smith, The Walt Disney Company archivist, answers questions about the company's history and its film productions.

Is it true that some cels of Disney animation have actually sold for over $30,000?

—G.K., Lawrence, KS

There have been a few auction sales where pieces of Disney Art from the early classic films have reached five-figure prices, but these have always been for the painted celluloid ("cel") plus the original master background that was used for photographing the scene. The backgrounds are much more rare than the cels. The highest price so far has been for a scene of the Witch in her dungeon from Snow White. It sold for approximately $30,000.

Are Mickey and Minnie or Donald and Daisy married?

—J.N., Springfield, VA

Neither Mickey and Minnie nor Donald and Daisy have been married in any of our cartoons or comic stories. They are just best friends.

Does Tokyo Disneyland have a castle, and if so is it based on the castles at Disneyland or Walt Disney World?

—B.L., Lebanon, PA

There is a Cinderella Castle in Tokyo Disneyland and it is based on the castle at Walt Disney World. (Disneyland's castle is the Sleeping Beauty Castle.) Tokyo's Cinderella Castle differs from the one in Florida, however, featuring an exciting Mystery Tour that highlights some of the famed Disney villains. A castle is currently planned for Euro-Disneyland, the site of which is located outside of Paris. This structure will be totally different from any of our previous theme park castles.

Did the Disney Studios reedit Cinderella? When I saw it at our local theater, the words for the "Cinderella Work Song" were not the words I remembered.

—D.A., Carson, CA

There was no new editing done on Cinderella. Often the song in a film is quite different (and usually shorter) than the version found on records or published as sheet music. Perhaps your recollection of the "Work Song" is from a record version.

We enjoy your Abraham Lincoln presentation each time we visit Disneyland. Who provides the speaking voice of President Lincoln?

—L.W., Nephi, UT

The voice of Abraham Lincoln at both Disneyland's Great Moments with Mr. Lincoln and Walt Disney World's Hall of Presidents is provided by character actor Royal Dano. Dano has occasionally portrayed Lincoln in films. He bears an uncanny resemblance to the sixteenth president.

DISNEY CHANNEL TRIVIA

■ Newcomer David Weston, who stars in the Disney film The Legend of Young Dick Turpin (see page 45), was advised to try a theater career by Richard Burton. The film also features Bernard Lee (later known as "M" in James Bond films).

■ The breathtaking scenery of the Strawberry Mountains Wilderness Area, in eastern Oregon's Malheur National Forest, provided the backdrop for Napoleon and Samantha (see page 33). The rugged 33,000 acres of unspoiled terrain contains the largest stand of Ponderosa pines in the world.

■ Stewart Raffill, who found and trained the 500-lb. lion Major in Napoleon and Samantha, wore several hats during the film's production. Raffill also wrote the screenplay and served as the film's associate producer.

■ How do you shoot an entire movie during the two weeks of Vermont's fall color season? The answer is—you don't. When Walt Disney started work on Those Calloways, he sent a small film crew to Vermont in September to film the key exteriors, but then he built a replica on his studio backlot for the closeups. Since California is not known for its fall colors, 280,000 handpainted leaves and bushes had to be meticulously prepared to match the scenes of the real Vermont location.

MICKEY'S BIRTHDAYLAND

This year Mickey Mouse (and his friend Minnie, too!) is celebrating a very special birthday. And in honor of the occasion, The Magic Kingdom at Walt Disney World has unveiled a new attraction: Mickey's Birthdayland. One of the highlights of Mickey's Birthdayland is Mickey's house, and as you might expect, it's built to his mouse-size specifications. (Though there's plenty of room inside for both adults and children.) And to add to the celebration, there are also three temporary pavillions, the scene of a special show. In that program, Minnie Mouse sets to baking Mickey a birthday cake—but when Minnie leaves the kitchen, those chipmunks Chip 'N' Dale take over the baking with hilarious results. In addition to Mickey's house (its design and appearance were taken from one of Mickey's comic strips) and this stellar show, there's also lots of Mickey's memorabilia on display, showcasing Mickey's long and happy career. It all makes for a special treat in honor of a very special mouse—and of course you'll also get to meet and greet all of Mickey's many friends—like Donald Duck.

When your child is homesick and wants to come home from camp

By Barbara Bronson Gray

Dear Mom and Dad,

I thought camp was supposed to be fun, but I'm having an awful time. Please come get me right away.

Love,
Me

Getting a "come-get-me-quick" letter from a child can be a challenging, tough situation for parents. Caught between wanting to provide support, on the one hand, and wanting to help the child succeed at camp, on the other, parents feel they're in a no-win situation.

The most important thing for a parent to do when such a letter arrives is to not act immediately, according to Dr. Lionel Margolin, medical director of the Reiss-Davis Child Study Center in Los Angeles. Assess the situation and your child's personality. Is he or she a rugged individualist? A complainer? A loner or an extrovert? How does your child usually deal with a new situation? Also consider your own behavior in such situations. How has he seen you react to new challenges?

Children's homesickness frequently has little to do with camp. The child may want to come home because of something that was going on before he left for camp, or something that was planned to happen at home during camp, says Margolin. Is a baby going to be born? Was someone in the family going to have surgery? Is a favorite relative coming to town? Or were there family arguments or tension just before camp started?

"Depending on camp policy, call or write in response to your child's plea," advises Margolin, "and listen to your child's complaint. For someone to listen seriously to the concern may be all that's needed."

For some children it's just the first few days that are difficult, until new friends are made. Other youngsters may feel uninvolved in camp, or insecure about learning a new sport or camp-related skill.

It may help to talk with the child's counselor or the camp director to find ways to help your child become more engaged in activities at camp. "Our number one goal is to get the kids involved," says Tom Holland, one of the owner/directors of the Television programs such as Dinosaur! can spark a child's imagination—and spark a child's interest in reading.

Curing the couch potato syndrome: Part II

By Jacquelyn Gross

What follows is the second in a series of three articles by Jacquelyn Gross on ways to use a child's television watching to encourage reading as well. Her article in the last issue of The Disney Channel Magazine used the Monday night series The Swiss Family Robinson as an example of the type of program whose characters and plot might stimulate young viewers (perhaps with parental encouragement) not only to read the original novel by Johann David Wyss, but also to look for books with similar dramatic appeal.

This issue's piece points to ways in which a child's interest in nature programs and documentaries can be used to whet his or her appetite for reading.

In the August 28 issue, Gross looks at Grimm's Fairy Tales and Storybook Theater to show how even very young children can develop an awareness of characters and story content, and a love for reading.

Interests play a powerful role in nurturing readers. When children read something they really care about, they seem not to experience "decoding obstacles" and "comprehension difficulties" that so often turn reading into an onerous chore. Give children who are fascinated with dinosaurs either written information or a story about them, and they will read. It's their interest that powers their efforts; and its those efforts that will ultimately make them competent readers. You can motivate children to read by introducing them to something that excites them. With a TV set, that's easy. First, select programs that you think will interest your child—that will elicit a "Wow!" response. If your child is fascinated by nature or facts of any sort, you might try to watch Dinosaur! (page 44), or our ongoing Sunday evening series Animals in Action.

It's important that you watch these programs with your children. As you do, look for smiles and listen for "Oh's" and "Ah's." Make a mental note of the subjects that trigger a response.

Next, plan reading explorations around the interests noted—the more the better. An interest in the "Nocturnal Ani-

Homesick

Cottontail Ranch in Malibu, California. "Once they find things they enjoy doing, most children adapt quickly," he says.

Margolin also advises that parents get an on-the-scene assessment from the camp counselor. "Find out if the child is really falling apart. Some kids may just be looking for feedback on how they're doing. Just saying, 'I know you can handle it' may actually make a big difference to many kids," says Margolin.

Sometimes just stalling is the best approach for the parent to take. One father commented, "If I get a homesick letter from my son at camp, I send a letter by return mail. By the time he gets it, it's time to come home."

Margolin also suggests that if a child calls home because he's unhappy, the parents can make an arrangement with their child to write a long letter explaining what is going on, or to call back in three days. This gives the child reassurance that you're interested. It also involves him in a type of contract with you, while allowing time to get adjusted to the new environment.

The best way to deal with the possibility of homesickness is to prepare the child before camp begins. Find out as much as you can about the camp, the routine, the food, the activities, the types of clothes most children wear and any special clothes or equipment the children should have.

Margolin suggests parents tell their children: "There are a lot of things I can't tell you about camp, because I haven't been there. But I have a lot of confidence in you. If you have problems, ask the counselor. And it's OK to feel a little homesick."

Parents should also seriously consider whether their children are ready to go away to camp. Are they independent in school? Can they make friends? If they have areas of difficulty, be sure you discuss these with the staff before camp begins. And if it's your child's first time away at camp, be sure the staff knows that too. They'll be especially alert to signs of sadness and can lend support before the homesick letter ever gets written.

Family Drama

When tragedy threatens home and family; and man, woman, or child fights back for survival, a poignant drama unfolds. Three such films about strength and courage in the face of family loss air on The Disney Channel in July and August. One movie—Menace on the Mountain—is about a 14-year-old boy who battles to keep the farm left in his care when his father joins the Confederate Army.

Two others, both scheduled after 9:00 p.m. (EDT/PDT) for older family members, are Country and Cowboys Don't Cry. In Country a woman holds onto her family and homestead against harsh circumstance. Cowboys Don't Cry tells what happens when the cowboy's wife dies, and he and his son struggle to keep the ranch going and to build a life together.

Couch Potato

mals" episode of Animals in Action might take you first to your own encyclopedia, then to the zoo, the natural history museum, the public library, and a children's bookstore. Remember that all reading doesn't have to be from a book. The information posted on an animal cage can serve your reading goals, too. As you go along, you will find that in exploring one subject, new interests and new explorations arise. You can also help to overcome any reading difficulties by reading aloud—encouraging your children to join in whenever possible.

It doesn't matter whether children are average readers, poor readers, or not yet old enough to read. If you manage to tap a real interest, your children will welcome reading.

Jacquelyn Gross, Ed.D., is a reading specialist, a doctor of Education, and author of Make Your Child a Lifelong Reader.

Improving America's Schools

Literacy programs

Concern about illiteracy and how to fight it continues in every school system in every state in the country. And here and there, a single individual or a small group makes a difference. This spring the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur

Foundation, in Chicago, awarded 14 new grants totalling $4.4 million to programs focused on early childhood literacy.

One award, for example, went to Ohio State University, supporting the University's study of the Reading Recovery Program, an innovative program in Ohio grade schools for children with early reading difficulties, to determine the reason for the program's success and how others across the nation can best take advantage of the program. Another group to win a grant was the National Committee for Citizens in Education, Columbia, Maryland, supporting ACCESS, its clearinghouse for information available to parents, educators and others interested in public involvement to improve public schools.

More art, please

In May the National Endowment for the Arts issued a report, based on a two-year study, saying that arts education should be part of the school curriculum for all pupils from kindergarten to 12th grade in order to "gain a sense of what civilization is, and how, as adults, they can contribute to it."

Endowment Chairman Frank Hodsoll, speaking at a press conference on the arts report, said, "Like other school subjects, the arts must be taught sequentially and to all students, not just the especially talented. Do we teach math only to those students who are good at it?"

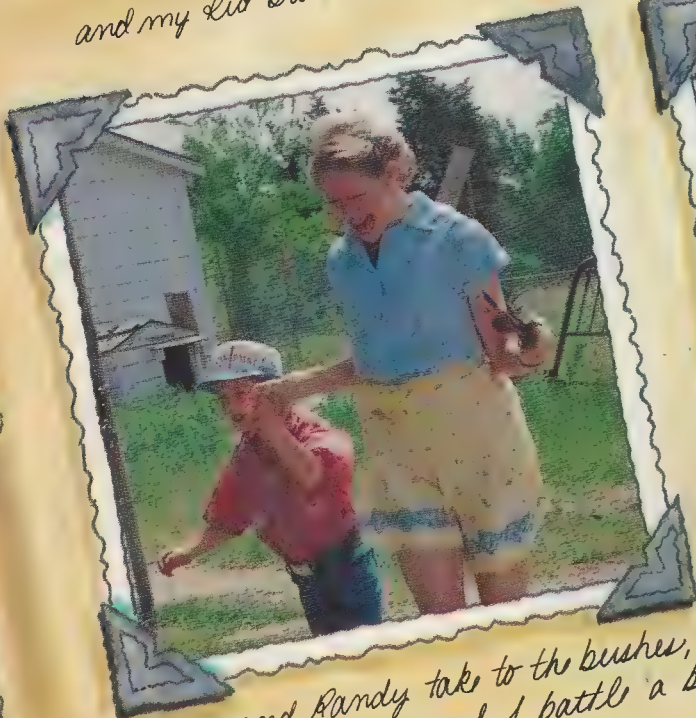

Basic arts education is needed "to understand civilization" and "to develop creativity and problem-solving skills," Hodsoll said. And he added, "This is not a bleak report—this is a positive report. But there are miles to go."

A Disney Channel Premiere film

OLLIE HOPNOODLE'S HAVEN OF BLISS

Ollie Hopnoodle's Haven of Bliss is a comic tribute to one of the great rites of summer: the family vacation. Every summer, from the beginning of June until school starts in September, families across the country dream of vacation bliss, of sunny days free from the concerns of the everyday world. Now Jean Shepherd, one of America's premiere humorists, turns his witty and ironic eye on this American ritual. But visions of that perfect retreat are a far cry from the family vacations of the 1950s that Shepherd recalls in Ollie Hopnoodle's Haven of Bliss, which premieres on The Disney Channel on Saturday, August 6 at 7:00 p.m. (Eastern/Pacific time). The vacations Shepherd remembers, with sardonic fondness, are those calamitous treks taken by car, with each family member—including the dog—wedged in between piles of towels, cooking gear, and assorted vacation paraphernalia.

Shepherd narrates his story in the role of an adult Ralph, recalling that worst of all summer vacations, when he was 14 years old. Unlike other noted Shepherd tales narrated by the older Ralph, the focus of this family story is Ralph's father, "The Old Man."

In this particular comedy adventure, The Old Man and his family—Mom, teenage Ralph, and his kid brother Randy, plus Fuzzhead the dog—have plans to return to their favorite vacation spot: Ollie Hopnoodle's Haven of Bliss, a lakeside resort with five cottages, named for the Dionne quintuplets. Last year our all-American family stayed in "Yvonne" and the roof leaked; this year they'll stay in "Marie."

Shepherd has been entertaining audiences with his off-beat humor for 30 years or more, on radio, television, and in novels and collections of short stories. Ollie Hopnoodle follows in the familiar Shepherd tradition of fictional stories based on his childhood in a small industrial steel town in Indiana. Two other favorites, Jean Shepherd's Great American Fourth of July and Other Disasters and The Phantom of the Open Hearth, about the traumatic event of the junior prom, are also airing on The Disney Channel. (Check listings for air dates and times.)

During the filming of Ollie Hopnoodle, on location in Texas, The Disney Channel Magazine visited with Shepherd and cast members on the set. It was obvious that Shepherd's script had struck a chord—and tickled the funny bone—of each of the actors. James B. Sicking (Hill Street Blues), who plays "The Old Man," recalled long road trips out west when he was a boy, sometimes with his father, other times with both his parents. And Dorothy Lyman (Mama's Family), Mom, closely identified with the film's family: "I had an upbringing very much like the one portrayed. Every summer my brother and I would be piled into the car with my mother and my dad. I'd be put in there in June and let out in September. I'd watch lakes and swimming pools and everything else go by the window, and I'd be stuck in the car fighting with my brother."

The ordeal of the summer family vacation, with all of its encumbrances, lives on today, familiar also to Jerry O'Connell (Stand By Me), who plays the 14-year-old Ralph. "I couldn't stop laughing when I read the script. My family goes to Montauk every summer, and it's exactly like this. We pile the car with all kinds of stuff we don't even use."

Shepherd sees the family vacation as one of our great American rituals. "As a writer, I'm always interested in rituals," Shepherd says, "like Christmas, the Fourth of July, Easter. And there is nothing more ritualistic than the American family vacation. We are a nation that lives for vacations. Particularly the industrial classes because they don't get the long weekends that the guys with the fancy suits and BMWs get. It's usually two weeks out of 52, and families develop their own routines, frequently going to the same place, even the same cottage, year after year.

"There's a hidden theme here, as well," Shepherd continues: "The American work ethic, which, of course, is tied up with the American vacation. The father is never comfortable unless he's working. When the kid, Ralph, gets his first job, he's introduced to the work ethic: the idea that you're in a state of grace when you're working," as Shepherd describes it. "But Ralph's experience is horrendous, and thus he develops a lifelong attitude toward bosses and jobs." Vintage Shepherd.

"I hate nostalgia," he sneers. "It's an American sickness to believe there used to be a better time. It's all myth . . . There never were any good old days, there's just days."

"Just days," perhaps, but Shepherd's eccentric imagination bends those days into hilarious caricatures of everyday life in America. Audiences respond not just with laughter, however. Shepherd limns his characters with such affection that audiences also feel a sense of, yes, nostalgia.

"My mother's meatloaf set the standard for the whole state," Ralph, as an adult, reminisces. "She was to meatloaf what Ted Williams was to long ball hitting. Mom was a slugger!" Now that's nostalgia for anyone who has ever smelled a meatloaf cooking in the oven (or watched Ted Williams bat), whether Shepherd intends for it to be nostalgic or not.

"The film's also about the American pet, who is as much a part of the family as the kid," Shepherd adds. When Fuzzhead the dog disappears, only days before leaving for vacation, all plans are in jeopardy. "It's a trauma," says Shepherd, "especially for Mom."

Fuzzhead is played by Shepherd's own pampered pet Daphne. Camera directions for the dog's first scene, scripted by the humorist, read: "Cut to Fuzzhead, a small black-and-white dog, looking exceedingly cute and lovable. She makes Benji look like Cujo."

It's not surprising that Daphne got the Fuzzhead role. She has appeared in three other Shepherd films. And as Shepherd freely admits, "I'm in the movie business, and if I can't indulge in the business of nepotism, I'm not in the racket."

And so it goes, with Fuzzhead rounding out the family complications, putting one more obstacle between The Old Man and the two weeks of vacation he has dreamed about. Will they get to Ollie Hopnoodle's Haven of Bliss? Will it rain the whole time?

This most recent Shepherd creation adds another entertaining tale to the humorist's long list of stories about the industrial heartland of America, where, as he says in The Phantom of the Open Hearth, "I learned to dream the American dream of the beautiful future, the glorious past, and the crummy now." 🐶

VIDEOPOLIS SUPERSTAR SPECIAL

Go behind-the-scenes with today's hottest performers—
plus an exclusive concert at Videopolis

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to be a teenage pop star? To run around on the beach in pajamas like Debbie Gibson (in her video "Only in My Dreams"), or to give concerts around the world like The Jets? Now The Disney Channel's Videopolis Superstar Special (premiering Tuesday, August 9 at 8:00 p.m., Eastern/Pacific time) takes a behind-the-scenes look at the lives of some of today's most popular performers.

From a classroom to a live concert, you'll get an insider's view of a day in the life of several music sensations. Meet some of Shanice Wilson's friends as she takes you to school in her hometown of Los Angeles. Join The Jets on their bus as they go on a nationwide concert tour. Go to a party at Zuma Beach in California with Nia Peeples and her family. And there's also a special music segment with Debbie Gibson, filmed in Boston.

What's more, you'll have a front row seat to one of the year's hottest concert events at Disneyland's dance palace, Videopolis. That's where many of these young stars will take center stage to perform their hits. In addition to Shanice Wilson, Nia Peeples and The Jets will break through the sound barrier singing their smash singles.

What do all of these performers have in common? A few years ago no one had heard of any of them! Unless, of course, you noticed Shanice Wilson singing with Ella Fitzgerald in a Kentucky Fried Chicken commercial. Or maybe you happened to be at a wedding at a Holiday Inn listening to the Wolfgramm family (now known as The Jets).

These performers' backgrounds are as diverse as their individual musical styles. Nia Peeples got her start in commercials and soap operas—jobs which eventually led to her landing the starring role of the singer Nicole on Fame. "Nicole was definitely an extension of me," Nia says of her part in the series. "I learned a lot about myself from her." Now with the release of her debut album and the hit single

The Olympic Games: they stand at the summit of athletic achievement. Every four years men and women from around the world meet to pursue—and for some, to fulfill—the dreams of a lifetime. And in every Olympics, there are new, young faces, the faces of competitors who may suddenly discover themselves stars in the athletic world—and the possessors of gold medals. Who are the young faces that may emerge victorious in this September's Summer Olympics?

Answers to that question may be discovered in An Olympic Dream, Bud Greenspan's provocative and thoughtful new special for The Disney Channel. Premiering August 19 at 7:00 p.m. (Eastern/Pacific time), An Olympic Dream probes beneath the surface of athletics to take a keen look at promising and gifted young competitors struggling towards their first Olympiad.

"It's something of a departure for us," Bud Greenspan said in a recent interview with The Disney Channel Magazine. "Other films we've done have had dramatic endings, and there was the pageantry of the Olympic Games. An Olympic Dream is more informative. It's the story of how young people from around the world get themselves to Seoul." (In a special later this year, Greenspan will follow up on the athletes' actual Olympic performances.)

The genesis for the program began when Greenspan was working on his Olympiad series, which detailed the history of the modern Games. "In show after show, I was struck by how many young athletes were featured," he says. "After all, Bob Matthias was only 17 when he won the gold medal in the decathlon. I was continually impressed by how well young athletes fared under the pressures of international competition."

For An Olympic Dream, Greenspan began by contacting the many different national and international amateur sports organizations connected with the Olympic Games. From that starting point, he began drawing up a list of individuals to be interviewed for the show. "It's an ongoing process," he points out. "Just this last weekend at a swim meet in Boca Raton, Florida, we met a young Yugoslavian swimmer. His mother is Yugoslavia's only gold medalist in swimming. So now we're preparing to go to Yugoslavia to film."

AN OLYMPIC DREAM

Among the Olympic hopefuls featured are a number of promising Americans. Swimmer Janet Evans has shattered five world records. "She's a phenomenon," Greenspan observes, adding, "If you put Janet in a group of swimmers, she's the one who looks least likely to know how to swim."

Other Americans include Denise Parker, who won a gold medal in the Pan American Games a year ago. "You think of archery as involving bows so big only someone like Errol Flynn could pull them," Greenspan says. "You have all the competitors who are big, mature—and here comes this little girl. She looks like she should be shooting arrows in her backyard. But she's a champion."

As for gymnast Melissa Marlowe, Greenspan points out, "We wanted to feature a gymnast who was relatively unknown. Melissa is a highly accomplished and poised athlete. She's also probably the most beautiful gymnast in the world."

"Someone we never heard of," is how Greenspan describes boxer Carl Daniels. "Now he has a shot at making the Olympic team. He met the 1987 boxer of the year in the '88 U.S. Amateur Championships—and defeated him."

But An Olympic Dream also looks at young athletes of other countries, such as 16-year-old runner Leah Malot of Kenya. In addition to Malot, there are segments with two Korean archers, Dutch swimmer Marieke Mastenbroek, plus a look at the Soviet women gymnasts in training.

An Olympic Dream is one of the most unusual sports films ever made. It takes a refreshing look at an area of athletics that most people never see. The program's warm, human dimensions confirm Greenspan's belief that the personal story of an athlete is often of greater import than any recounting of events won—or lost. ♥

SUPERSTAR SPECIAL

"Trouble," Nia's enjoying her career as a solo artist.

The Jets have been called "The Jackson 5" of the 80s—except there's seven of them—and they come from a family of 17! The Wolfgramm family moved to the United States in 1965 from their native island of Tonga, and have been performing ever since. But it wasn't until after several years of doing a Polynesian review in hotels that this musical family got their big break. Don Powell, former manager of Stevie Wonder, caught their act and signed them to a contract with MCA—a deal which led to their hit singles "Cross My Broken Heart," "Rocket 2 U," and "Crush On You."

The Jet's rhythmic music and upbeat videos are popular from Tokyo to Texas, but they won't let their stardom come between the family. "One of our goals is to show the world that families can do things together," says Leroy, the oldest member of the group. He adds, "When we look back on our life—an immigrant family coming to America—it's like the American dream. We feel very lucky."

Like The Jets, Debbie Gibson was involved in music at an early age. She's been writing songs since the age of five and was trained in classical piano. Before making it as a solo artist, Debbie laid down demo tapes for over 100 of her own songs in her home studio. Endowed with a perfect pitch, she also worked in commercials for such major firms as Wendy's and Commodore Computers. These accomplishments helped her co-produce, and play keyboards, for her smash debut album, Out of the Blue. Debbie also wrote the 10 songs on the album—infectious melodies such as "Shake Your Love" and "Only In My Dreams"—that have teens dancing across the country. A special music segment features Debbie in Boston.

All of these performers are just like other teens—they go to school and have to deal with the same problems. Their music is energetic and fun, but it also reflects the concerns of people their age: school, dancing,

"I tell all my secrets to a friend who's all ears."

ShowToons

good times and of course, love. Shanice Wilson wrote the lyrics for her hit songs "Bet She's Got a Boyfriend" and "(Baby Tell Me) Can You Dance" because she wanted to talk about things that were important to teenagers. "After all," Shanice says, "I'm just a typical 14-year-old."

For "just a typical 14-year-old" Shanice Wilson is super-talented. Her parents say she could carry a tune at the age of seven months. At three, she was singing backup for her mother's band. Shanice's mother recalls with a laugh, "We'd have a little stool to help her reach the microphone, and then we'd step back and watch her wail."

Shanice was influenced by great singers such as Judy Garland, Ella Fitzgerald, and Patti LaBelle. But when it came to producing her first solo album, "we tailored the material and the sound to my style," Shanice says. And this remarkable 14-year-old has a funky, contemporary style that's all her own.

On the hit series Throb, Jonathan Prince gets a taste of what it's like to produce the records that make these stars so popular. (Prince plays the gregarious, good looking president of Throb Records.) When The Disney Channel asked Prince to host the Videopolis Superstar Special, he was really excited. "I've hosted shows before and the series I'm doing now deals with music, so it's a great combination." Prince adds, "There couldn't be a better show for me because I'm a fan too! I ask the questions everyone wants to know because I'm out there buying their records also."

Which performers does Jonathan like? "The Jets are hot, and I really like Nia Peeples," he adds laughing, "but I don't think my girlfriend would appreciate me saying that!"

With an exclusive concert featuring some of today's biggest pop stars—plus an inside look at their everyday lives—the Videopolis Superstar Special is an exciting show you won't want to miss. It's a chance to see firsthand the hard work and energy these performers put into achieving their stardom. Musical sensations like Debbie Gibson think the results were well worth the effort. In fact, Debbie hopes other teenagers follow in her footsteps. "I hope I can inspire other people my age to realize that they, too, can do what I'm doing." ♡ the Grants are determined to build a plantation at Thika. Slowly they learn to bear up under hardship, adapting to a new life dominated by the customs of a harsh land. Their resolution results in a series of adventures—and dangerous encounters—with African wildlife and the surrounding tribesmen. Throughout these trials Tilly remains a pillar of fortitude, uniting the family and their neighbors with her vitality and strength.

Hayley Mills believes the role of Tilly Grant represents a "coming of age" in her acting career. "Tilly was a challenge for me," Mills says. "It is the most grown up role I've played so far, but I thoroughly enjoyed it."

"It was fairly primitive," she says of her experience in the bush. (The cast lived in tents during the 13 weeks of filming on location in Kenya.) "There were snakes about, as well as leopards. The soldier ants, who bit one's feet, were a bit of a bore. And there was the constant fear of catching something in the jungle."

A teenage superstar during the 1960s, Hayley Mills starred in half a dozen Disney films by the time she was 19, including Pollyanna, The Parent Trap, and That Dam Cat! But few child stars make a successful transition into mature roles. Even Mills admits it took hard work to prove herself. "Because the Disney films were so popular," she says, "it took forever and a day to shake off that squeaky-clean image."

Returning to England, Mills launched a new career in theater and television, and has proved eminently successful. Her starring role in The Flame Trees of Thika was an added laurel to this British actress' crown.

The Flame Trees of Thika is illuminated with the awe and wonder which the unspoiled world of Africa evoked in a young girl's heart. Capturing the wild, at times brutal splendor of the African terrain, this miniseries is a rare opportunity for Disney Channel subscribers to view the tribes and the wildlife which roamed East Africa at the turn of the century—and the brave pioneers who settled there. ♡

Jean Shepherd's Ollie Hopnoodle's Haven of Bliss

Will 14-year-old Ralph survive his first summer job? Will the disappearance of the family dog—Fuzzhead—delay the family's departure to a vacation haven? Will their Chevy, burdened with equipment that will probably never be used, survive the trip? The answers to all these questions form the crux of Ollie Hopnoodle's Haven of Bliss, the latest Disney Channel Premiere Film. Written and narrated by acclaimed humorist Jean Shepherd, the film is a satiric look back at the family vacations of yesteryear. It was a time when Dad—"The Old Man"—spent fifty weeks out of the year dreaming of two weeks of vacation bliss. The reality, as Shepherd's story shows, is far removed from fantasy. James B. Sikking (of Hill Street Blues) plays "The Old Man"; Dorothy Lyman (from Mama's Family) is his harrassed and harried housewife. Portraying Ralph—narrator Shepherd's younger self in the film—is Jerry O'Connell (who appeared in the film Stand By Me); his nemesis—"my kid brother Randy"—is played by Jason Clarke Adams.

Olympic specials

An Olympic Dream

Famed for sports films which probe beneath the surface of competition to examine the human side of the story, Bud Greenspan has now created a unique program. It profiles five young Olympic hopefuls, including swimmer Janet Evans, boxer Carl Daniels, and gymnast Melissa Marlow as they prepare for the 1988 Summer Games, to be held this September in Seoul, South Korea. The special presents stories of extraordinary courage, self-sacrifice, and discipline as they pursue their dreams of athletic competition. It's a special that will intrigue, move, and entertain young and old alike (see page 45).

Bud Greenspan's Summer Olympic Greats (Parts III and IV)

The master of the sports documentary serves up more exciting tales from the history of the Summer Olympics. Athletes featured in these two, half-hour shows include Australian swimmer Dawn Fraser, American diver Sammy Lee, East German swimmer Kornelia Ender and American track star Harrison Dillard. ## A seven-hour miniseries starring Hayley Mills

The Flame Trees of Thika

Beginning July 24 at 9:00 p.m. (Eastern/Pacific time), Sunday Night Showcase presents a superb miniseries, The Flame Trees of Thika. The year is 1913 as the Grant family leaves England to establish a new life in a remote place: the East African Protectorate. Leading the family is Robin Grant (David Robb), a gentleman and former army officer. Accompanying him are his wife Tilly (Hayley Mills) and daughter, Elspeth. Based on Elspeth Huxley's celebrated novel. See page 22 for feature article on this splendid program.

A Spencer Tracy Tribute

In anticipation of The Best of Hollywood's Spencer Tracy Festival, Sunday Night Showcase presents two special programs on July 17 at 9:00 p.m. (Eastern/Pacific time).

Hepburn and Tracy

This hour-long documentary traces the films and careers of one of Hollywood's great acting duos: Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn. Together they starred in nine films (two of which air as part of The Spencer Tracy Festival).

Up the River

Following Hepburn and Tracy, don't miss Up the River. This rarely seen film, once thought lost (The Disney Channel is presenting the sole surviving print), marked the movie debuts of both Spencer Tracy and Humphrey Bogart. The film is slightly damaged. (See page 32 for both of these programs.)

The Best of Hollywood

Spencer Tracy Festival

His ease and natural manner in front of the cameras made Spencer Tracy one of the great screen stars. The Best of Hollywood pays tribute to Tracy with a selection of films on five consecutive Mondays at 9:00 p.m. (EDT/PDT), beginning July 18.

Desk Set

Spencer Tracy as an efficiency expert clashes with the head of the research department (Katharine Hepburn) in this romantic comedy (see page 32).

Pat and Mike

One of the best Tracy-Hepburn pairings: he's a sports promoter who has great plans for Hepburn and her athletic career (page 37).

Father's Little Dividend

When a father (Tracy) learns he's to be a grandfather, he isn't looking forward to the change. Elizabeth Taylor plays Tracy's daughter (see page 39).

Stanley and Livingstone

Tracy portrays the journalist-explorer Henry Stanley in this 1939 adventure film (page 40).

The Plymouth Adventure

The pilgrims set sail for the new world with Tracy portraying the captain of the Mayflower (page 44).

A comedy with Marlon Brando

Teahouse of the August Moon

Brando is Sakini, the interpreter for a U.S. Army captain (Glenn Ford) who has been sent to Okinawa to "Americanize" the natives (see page 46).

WORLD TELEVISION PREMIERE

COWBOYS DON'T CRY

A sensitive and moving feature film

Cowboys Don't Cry

After a young wife and mother is killed in a tragic car accident, her husband—a rodeo champion—and young son must attempt to piece together their shattered lives. This is a superb film that takes an unflinching look at love, loss, and grief (page 33).

GOING APE !

Young Foster (Tony Danza) has his bachelor life turned topsy-turvy when he inherits three orangutans from his father. If Foster can keep the animals alive, he'll also inherit a fortune. But when the orangs and their trainer Lazlo (Danny DeVito) move in, Foster's love life takes a dive. What's more, a shady wildlife organization has their eye on the orangutans and Foster's legacy in this Disney Channel premiere. (1:28) July 30; Aug. 5, 7, 11, 17,

Sunday Night Showcase THE FLAME TREES OF THIKA

This superb seven-hour miniseries is based on Elspeth Huxley's acclaimed memoir of life in Africa shortly before World War I. As a young girl, she moves with her family from London to the then colony of Kenya, where her mother and father hope to establish a coffee plantation. Beginning from scratch, they must clear the bush, lay out the plantation, and struggle to make ends meet. Hayley Mills portrays Elspeth's mother, who provides the family with its strength and support. Ben Cross is a family friend, a white hunter. A new episode airs every Sunday evening at 9:00 p.m. (EDT/PDT). Premieres Sunday, July 24.

The Best of Hollywood PAT AND MIKE

Hepburn and Tracy in one of their most acclaimed film pairings: she's a superbly talented athlete and he's a New York sports promoter who plans to turn her into a world champion. When these two meet, the romantic sparks really fly. Look for a young Charles Bronson in a small role. (1:33) July 25, 31; Aug. 9, 19, 25

RUNNING BRAVE

At the 1964 Summer Olympics in Tokyo, Japan, Billy Mills, an American Indian, scored an unforgettable triumph: he won the gold medal in the 10,000 meter run, edging out a favored world champion. Running Brave is the true story of Billy Mills. It's a story that chronicles Mills's journey from the impoverished reservation on which he was born to the University of Kansas, where he became a track star, and finally to his triumph in the Olympic Games. Robby Benson plays Billy Mills; Pat Hingle is the disciplined and demanding coach who ultimately failed to understand him. And Claudia Cron portrays Mills's wife, his staunchest supporter and his inspiration. (1:47) July 29; Aug. 6, 13, 23

BELLES ON THEIR TOES

This sequel to Cheaper by the Dozen follows the lives of a mother and her 12 children. (1:29) July 27; Aug. 2, 7, 15, 23

FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE

An angel (Clifton Webb) is sent to Earth to aid a producer and his wife (Robert Cummings and Joan Bennett) whose busy careers have kept them from having children. (1:32) July 24; Aug. 18

MY FRIEND IRMA

A "flighty" female and her friend meet up with Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis (in their first movie together). (1:43) July 28; Aug. 7, 13, 23

THINKING BIG

Marty is a small and shy school-boy who has a problem with the school's big bully. But when he mentions his problem to his teddy bear, Theo, Theo comes to life and teaches Marty an important lesson in self-confidence: that being big and strong isn't the answer to all of life's problems, particularly in Marty's case. (1:00) July 26; Aug. 8, 13, 19

Jean Shepherd's OLLIE HOPNOODLE'S HAVEN OF BLISS

Jean Shepherd created this hilarious tale exclusively for The Disney Channel. The story recounts the adventures of a Midwestern family in search of the perfect vacation. They find the leisure spot of a lifetime at "Ollie Hopnoodle's Haven of Bliss," where the cabins are named after the Dionne quintuplets. Ralph, the 14-year-old son and narrator of the tale, paints a funny portrait of his family in the '50s as they weather typical vacation woes—an over-packed Chevy, lost fishing tackle and sharing the back seat with a whining younger brother. Jerry O'Connell (Stand By Me) and James B. Sikking (Hill Street Blues) star. (1:40) Aug. 6, 12, 16, 20

IVANHOE

This sweeping adventure captures the chivalry and splendor of medieval England, when Britain was juggling the hatred between the Normans and the Saxons. Filmed in the castles of Northumberland, Ivanhoe stars Anthony Andrews as a valiant warrior fighting against the evil Norman knights who support the oppressive reign of John, acting as the regent for Richard the Lionheart. In the midst of battles and pageantry, he falls in love with two women—the lady Rowena and a Jewish girl. James Mason and Olivia Hussey costar. (2:22) Aug. 2, 15, 24

DISNEY'S LIVING SEAS

John Ritter hosts this entertaining special which takes a behind-the-scenes look at the world's largest salt-water "ocean environment," located at Walt Disney World's EPCOT Center. Mickey and the gang join in the fun, with special guest performances by Duran Duran and Laura Branigan. (1:00) Aug. 2, 7, 12, 24

CAPTAIN FROM CASTILLE

An embittered Spanish officer (Tyrone Power) journeys to the new world after being falsely accused of heinous crimes and subsequently tortured by the Inquisition. He and his wife (Jean Peters) find tranquility in their new life until Power meets up with the officer who brought the false charges against him. Cesar Romero costars in this scenic swashbuckler. (2:20) Aug. 4, 14, 20

ASTERIX THE GAUL

Asterix, a comical midget-of-a-Gaul, is one of France's favorite cartoon characters. He and his voracious sidekick battle the Romans in this animated comedy. (1:07) Aug. 1, 7, 15, 23

THE KARATE KID

Ralph Macchio plays the new kid in town who has to contend with a bunch of bullies. One day he meets up with a local gardener who believes there's more than one way in life to fight back. Pat Morita plays the unlikely mentor who teaches Macchio the art of karate. Through discipline and hard work, the boy learns to defend himself—and a new way of life. (2:05) Aug. 5, 11, 17

The Best of Hollywood

FATHER'S LITTLE DIVIDEND

The Best of Hollywood's Spencer Tracy film festival continues with this comedy classic. An over-protective father, Spencer Tracy, didn't approve of his daughter's choice of fiancées—but the strong-minded daughter, played by Elizabeth Taylor, married the love of her life (Don Taylor) anyway. Giving away his daughter wasn't easy, and just when he's getting used to his new son-in-law, Taylor announces she's pregnant. Tracy's life is once again disrupted as he deals with becoming a grandfather. This delightful sequel to Father of the Bride features Tracy, in one of his most charming roles, and the beautiful Elizabeth Taylor. (1:21) Aug. 1, 7, 21

THE PLEASURE OF HIS COMPANY

This film combines an all-star cast and a hit Broadway play to create a charming comedy. An ex-husband returns home and attempts to break up his daughter's wedding by promising her a whirlwind tour of the world. Starring Fred Astaire, Tab Hunter and Debbie Reynolds. (1:55) July 31; Aug. 8, 16

Sunday Night Showcase JEAN SHEPHERD'S PHANTOM OF THE OPEN HEARTH

Jean Shepherd, one of America's most popular humorists, captures with brilliant comical detail one of the great traumas of teenagehood—the junior prom. Who will he take to the prom? What will he wear and what will happen afterwards? These are the dilemmas facing 17-year-old Ralph, a typical boy growing up in the Midwest during the 40's. When the big night finally arrives, hilarity and chaos set in. This program has been selected for our mature viewers and will air only after 9:00 p.m., Eastern/Pacific time. Parental discretion is advised. (1:15) July 31; Aug. 12

The Best of Hollywood STANLEY AND LIVINGSTONE

Based on the true-life experiences of newspaperman Henry M. Stanley, this adventure story follows one man's quest into the heart of Africa. Stanley goes on assignment to Africa in search of the lost Scottish missionary, Dr. David Livingstone. He discovers the doctor but has trouble convincing the public of Livingstone's existence. It's a brilliant performance by Spencer Tracy as the determined Stanley. (1:41) Aug. 8, 14

THE CARE BEARS ADVENTURE IN WONDERLAND

The White Rabbit asks the Care Bears to help prevent a wizard from seizing control of Wonderland. The wizard has already kidnapped the rightful princess of Wonderland. But the Care Bears, with some aid from a young girl named Alice, manage to thwart the evil wizard's plot after Alice passes a severe test which puts her qualities of kindness and goodness on trial. (1:10) Aug. 13, 17, 21, 24

DR. SEUSS' THE LORAX

The Lorax is one of Dr. Seuss' intriguing creatures: he's a crusader intent on protecting the trees of his beloved "Truffula Forest." His opponent is the Onceler, who cares neither for the trees nor their fruit. The Onceler sees the trees as providing him with the raw material for his invention, the Thneed. July 23, 29; Aug. 3, 7, 12 cc

VIDEOPOLIS SUPERSTAR SPECIAL

This exclusive Disney Channel special takes an inside look at the lives of some of today's hottest performers. Visit Shanice Wilson in her hometown of Los Angeles. Go to a beach party with Nia Peeples and her friends. Join The Jets ("Rocket 2 U") on their concert bus as they tour across the United States. And there's Debbie Gibson, the 17-year-old "Only in My Dreams" sensation, singing in a special music segment in Boston. Plus, one of the hottest music tickets of the year is yours with a smash concert featuring The Jets, Nia Peeples, and Shanice Wilson—taped at Disneyland's dance palace, Videopolis. Hosted by Jonathan Prince, the star of the TV series Throb. (1:00) Aug. 9, 14

COUNTRY

In this acclaimed—and sobering—drama, Jessica Lange and Sam Shepard portray the Ivys, an American farm family whose way of life is endangered by inclement weather and the threat of foreclosure. This program has been selected for our mature viewers and will air only after 9:00 p.m. (Eastern/Pacific time). Parental discretion is advised. (1:49) Aug. 13 cc

THE GREAT LAND OF THE SMALL

Two children from New York City, Jenny and David, visit the farm of their grandparents in Canada. While there, they discover that the surrounding woods are magical. In fact, they meet a small, hobbit-like creature named Fritz, who is king of the Land of Small. (1:35) Aug. 12, 18, 22

JEREMIAH JOHNSON

Robert Redford gives a superb performance in this adventure story set in the mid-1800s. After the Mexican-American War, an ex-soldier retreats to the solitude of the high mountains to become a trapper. He is barely surviving his first harsh winter when he meets up with a feisty mountain hermit (played by Will Geer). Johnson also learns to live with the local Indians. As he settles into his new life, he takes an Indian wife—and together they adopt a son (a survivor of a massacre) and live peacefully until Johnson is forced to lead a rescue expedition across a sacred burial ground—an act which leads to a ferocious and bloody feud. Allyn Ann McLerie costars. (1:47) Aug. 20

The Best of Hollywood PLYMOUTH ADVENTURE

Spencer Tracy portrays a cynical seadog, the captain of the good ship Mayflower. He transports the Pilgrims from the old world to their new home in Massachusetts, across the storm-tossed Atlantic. Plymouth Adventure won an Academy Award for its special effects. Gene Tierney and Van Johnson costar. (1:45) Aug. 15, 21

DINOSAUR!

This "stop-motion" animated special explores the prehistoric era when dinosaurs roamed the earth. Narrated by Christopher Reeve (Superman), this entertaining documentary offers various theories on the "terrible lizards'" survival techniques and why they became extinct. An educational special for the whole family. (1:00) Aug. 16, 22

DR. SEUSS ON THE LOOSE

The good Doctor serves up three of his most delightful animated tales in this special. There are the snobbish "Sneetches" who live on the beaches. A confrontation on the plain of Prax when a northbound "Zax" meets up with a southbound "Zax." And who could forget Sam-I-Am, whose favorite meal is "Green Eggs and Ham." It's a half hour of rhymes and riddles in these tales. July 22, 30; Aug. 4, 9, 13, 16, 21 cc

DOT AND KEETO

A little girl magically shrinks down to the size of an insect and encounters a series of adventures. She is befriended by a mosquito who saves her from the wretched ants. (1:10) Aug. 15, 20, 25

AN OLYMPIC DREAM

For amateur athletes, no greater honor exists than competing in the Olympic Games. And now Bud Greenspan has created a new special that focuses on the hopes and dreams of a number of young athletes as they prepare themselves for this September's Summer Olympics in Seoul. This original special focuses on competitors such as Janet Evans, a 16-year-old Californian who has already shattered five world records but who has yet to participate in an Olympiad. There are other wonderful stories as well, from locales as diverse as Kenya, Korea and the Netherlands. This program offers a new perspective on both the Olympics and the nature of athletic competition. (1:30) Aug. 19

THOSE CALLOWAYS

Cam Calloway is a trapper who dreams of providing a better life for his family by building a sanctuary for migrating geese. But two money-hungry land developers want to make the area a vacation resort. Brian Keith and Brandon de Wilde star in this story of one man's dream versus the impinging forces of commercialism. ## THE BEST OF WALT DISNEY PRESENTS

Programs range from animation to comedy to wildlife documentaries and dramas. All are especially selected from the acclaimed TV series that spanned 29 years. Many of the individual shows feature introductions by Walt Disney himself. The Best of Walt Disney Presents airs every Thursday evening at 8:00 p.m. (EDT/PDT).

THE LEGEND OF YOUNG DICK TURPIN

This Disney adventure film is the tale of young Dick Turpin, a renowned highwayman. An honest yeoman, Turpin (David Weston) is driven into banditry by the machinations of a greedy, foppish gentleman, Lord Calmsden (Roger Booth), who administers his estate with cold brutality. (1:40) Aug. 18, 25

TURTLE DIARY

The conservation of several gigantic sea turtles is the focus of this stirring drama. A British author (Glenda Jackson, A Touch of Class) and a bookstore clerk (Ben Kingsley, Gandhi) are united when they discover the public aquarium has been mistreating its marine life. The two devise a plan to steal the turtles and return them to the sea. (1:36) Aug. 14, 22

VIDEOPOLIS

It's 30 minutes of music and fun every weekday afternoon at 5:30 p.m. (Eastern/Pacific time). Hosted by Randy Hamilton, Videopolis is the series that features today's teens dancing to the latest sounds, as well as interviews with such guest stars as Gloria Estefan and Miami Sound Machine (they also perform live), and of course the latest music videos. A special attraction is the videograms, videos sent in by teenagers who live all across the country. There are even live segments and updates from the Videopolis dance palace in Disneyland. Videopolis is the best place to be every afternoon. After all, you never know when your favorite group will be making a guest appearance on the show!

The Best of Hollywood

TEAHOUSE OF THE AUGUST MOON

Glenn Ford is the young officer sent to the island of Okinawa to "Americanize" its population. But as he sets about his task, Ford quickly realizes he's met his match matching wits with his interpreter, Sakini (Marlon Brando in an exquisite comedic role—a tour de force for Brando). While aiding the officer in his task, Sakini carefully manages to insure that a few of the islander's local customs rub off on the American military. Directed by Daniel Mann from John Patrick's script (adapted from Patrick's stage play), this warm and witty comedy also costars Machiko Kyo, Eddie Albert, and Paul Ford. (2:03) Aug. 22

HUCKLEBERRY FINN

Huckleberry Finn cannot abide life at the house of the Widow Douglas, and thus sets out for what he imagines to be a free and easy life on the Mississippi. He falls in with Jim, a runaway slave, and together the two go cruising down the river. Huckleberry Finn stars Kurt Ida, Forrest Tucker, Brock Peters, and Larry Storch. (2:00) Aug. 25

BUD GREENSPAN'S SUMMER OLYMPIC GREATS (Part IV)

Greenspan's cameras follow the fortunes of great Olympic competitors. One of the featured athletes is American gold medalist Mark Breland (a boxer in the 1984 Games), and there's one stunning dramatic segment as well—the end of the 1968 marathon. Aug. 21, 25

FROM THE EARTH TO THE MOON

Shortly after the Civil War, a scientist harnesses a source of infinite energy he calls "Power X." He puts the substance to the ultimate test in an extraordinary flight to the moon. Starring Joseph Cotten and George Sanders. (1:40) July 18; Aug. 21

FUZZBUCKET

Adolescence can prove a difficult time, but 12-year-old Mikey has more than his share of problems: he's not only starting junior high, but his parents are constantly fighting. What Mikey needs is a wise, warm, and understanding friend. But no one has ever quite had a friend like Mikey's: an invisible but not imaginary creature named Fuzzbucket. Fuzzbucket's invisible, that is, to everybody but Mikey. As Fuzzbucket helps Mikey, Mikey tries to find a special formula to make Fuzzbucket visible to all in this Disney family film. (0:46) Aug. 23

Weekly Series

DANGER BAY

Grant "Doc" Roberts (Donnelly Rhodes) is the curator of marine mammals at the famed Vancouver Aquarium. With his children Jonah and Nicole, "Doc" leads an adventure-filled life in the beautiful Pacific Northwest. A different episode of the series airs Wednesdays at 8:30 p.m. (EDT/PDT) [s] cc

SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON

After being shipwrecked on an island, the members of the Robinson family—plus two friends, an old castaway and their ship captain's daughter—adapt to their environment and its dangers. A new episode of Swiss Family Robinson airs every Monday night at 8:00 p.m. (EDT/PDT).

FALL PREVIEW WEEKEND

Friday, Saturday and Sunday August 26-28

♥ The Disney Channel presents a Fall Preview of original movies and specials, as well as the debuts of upcoming series and the season premieres of many continuing series.

♥ Carol Burnett hosts The Disney Channel's Fall Preview—an stars in a unique one-woman special from the new Disney-MGM Studios in Florida.

♥ Among the other highlights of this weekend is The Disney Channel Premiere Film A Friendship in Vienna, starring Ed Asner and Jane Alexander.

Complete program listings for The Fall Preview Weekend will appear in the next issue of The Disney Channel Magazine.

THE WIZARD OF BAGHDAD

A lazy, bumbling genie (Dick Shawn) attempts to prevent an angry sultan from usurping the throne of Baghdad and overthrowing his friends, a prince and princess. Despite his fumbling, the genie proves successful in the end as all turns out well in this satire of costumed, swashbuckling epics. (1:32) Aug. 25

CANNONBALL

A clown finds himself down on his luck after his cannon act loses favor with circus audiences—and his boss. But as luck has it, he meets up with a sorry dog whose fortunes have also fallen. The homeless pooch and the poor clown come together and form a fast friendship—a friendship that revives their fortunes in this special. July 29; Aug. 11, 19

KIDS INCORPORATED

Kids Incorporated is a group of cool, young performers who have realized their dreams by forming their own rock group. Kids Incorporated airs every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 5:00 p.m. (Eastern/Pacific time). And during The Disney Channel's Fall Preview Weekend, there's the premiere of a brand new episode.

JUST FOR KIDS FAN

I really love The Disney Channel. My favorite shows are Kids Incorporated, KidScene, The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet, and The Boy Who Could Fly. I love reading the "Just For Kids" section in the magazine, and I like reading the stories in "Read, Write, and Draw," read by Vincent Price on television.

THE SEARCH

A scientist named E. Roth
Wanted to find a bush moth.
He searched every island in the sea,
He searched in the vast, cold plains
of Dudree,
But as hard as he tried,
he sat down and cried,
For there was no moth to be found
anywhere!
Not in the Pink Sea,
or the rumdogdle tree,
which grows with its roots in the air.
Not on the Podge Plains,
which turn red when it rains
(The sight causes people to stare).
He found a glink and a glonk,
and a sixteen-eyed sklonk
and a troll with purple hair,
But as hard as he tried,
he sat down and cried,
For there was no moth to be found
anywhere!
But from the corner of his eye,
he saw something flutter by.
He picked up his net,
and quickly got set.
With one mighty swing,
he captured the thing—
A purple-winged, long-tailed Wubbabame,
A very rare creature
with the remarkable feature of being able to breathe purple flame.
Even though Roth
didn't catch a bush moth,
His search had at last brought him fame!

MY FAVORITE SHOWS

I like The Disney Channel because I think it is really the best American network in the world. Some of the movies and shows I like are So Dear to My Heart, The Raccoons, The Brave Little Toaster, and Donald Duck Presents. There is a lot to say about The Disney Channel, but this is all I can say!

Read, Write, and Draw

After a baseball game, Angie and Rick lose their mother in the crowd at Dodger Stadium. They take a staircase that leads them to a red door. What happens next?

Read the story's beginning, then make up an ending (100 words or less) and draw a picture to illustrate the tale. Send your story to:

THE BASEBALL SURPRISE

It was the bottom of the ninth on a hot afternoon at Dodger stadium. The score was Mets 6, Dodgers 5. Rick, Angie and their Mom watched the ending of this exciting game, hoping the Dodgers would win.

"If they hit a homer I'll take everyone out for ice cream sundaes!" said Rick and Angie's Mom.

The bases were loaded with two outs, and one of the Dodgers' star players hit the ball out of the stadium. The crowd went wild!

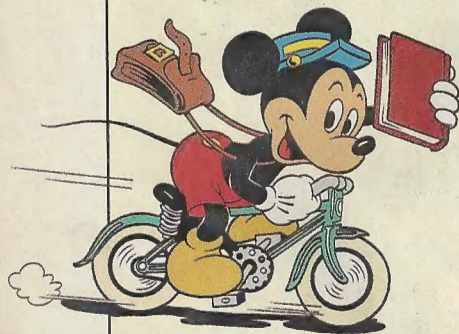

"What a game!" exclaimed Angie, as she and Rick struggled to get to the aisle. They were immersed in a crowd of hundreds of people. Angie held on to Rick's arm.

"Wait," said Rick, "where's Mom?"

They looked all around and couldn't find her. "Quick," said Angie, "let's take these stairs."

They ran down four flights of stairs until they reached a red door. "You go first," said Rick. Angie reached for the handle, then slowly opened the door and...

FIND IT IN THE LIBRARY

Our youngest viewers will enjoy the animated special Dr. Seuss on the Loose. It's based on three of Dr. Seuss's stories, including the good doctor's masterpiece Green Eggs and Ham. The Wind in the Willows is a stop-action animated film that's based on Kenneth Grahame's tale of the same title. Grahame's book is suited for readers aged 10 and up. For older readers (12 and up), several good books are the sources of current programs. Huckleberry Finn is adapted from Mark Twain's The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, about a boy's adventures on the Mississippi River. And Ivanhoe is based on Sir Walter Scott's romantic tale of brave (and some not) knights and beautiful damsels. Bridge to Terabithia is adapted from Katharine Paterson's Newbery Medal-winning novel. From the Earth to the Moon is based on a famed Jules Verne science fiction novel.
